- 1 The Kardashians agreed to make a TV show, but they think it's had a bad effect on the family.
- 2 The Kardashians' show was successful, but the family are now too busy to make more shows.
- 3 The Kardashians' show has many viewers, but it doesn't appeal to everybody.

Reading Strategy

Read the missing sentences carefully. Then read the sentences in the text that come before and after each gap. Look for words that link with vocabulary in the missing sentences (e.g. synonyms, paraphrases, words with the opposite meaning, pronouns).

- 4 Read the Reading Strategy. Then match sentences A-F with gaps 1-4 in the text. There are two extra sentences.
  - A She has three girls Kourtney, Kim and Khloé and one son, Rob.
  - B Throughout the series, many family events have been shown.
  - C But who are they and why are they famous?
  - D Other reality TV shows are about singing, dancing, or cooking.
  - E A lot of Americans disapprove of the family's behaviour on TV and in the press.
  - F Kim married rap star Kanye West and has a daughter called North.

The Kardashians are currently one of the USA's most wellknown families. They are often in the news, and Americans follow their lives in the papers and celebrity magazines. 1 The Kardashians are reality TV stars, with their own family show called Keeping up with the Kardashians.

It all started in 2007 when the family was asked by an American channel to make a TV series about their lives. The show focused on mother Kris and her four children. 2___ Their father was lawyer Robert Kardashian, who died a few years earlier. The show became a success in its first season, mainly because of the three sisters and their extrovert personalities.

Since then, there have been eight more seasons and the show is still running. 3___ Two of the sisters got married on the show. Kim got married twice! And two of the sisters are now parents. Furthermore, the three sisters have used their fame to establish careers in the fashion industry. They have opened clothes shops and launched several clothing collections and perfumes. Kim has even launched a successful mobile phone game called Kim Kardashian: Hollywood.

Although the show has many fans, it also has many critics. 4_ They are irritated by the sisters' desire for fame and fortune, and think the show is meaningless. The Kardashians are only 'famous for being famous', but they don't mind because it has made them rich.

Reading Strategy

Multiple-choice questions may test:

- · factual information (detailed or general).
- the writer's opinion.
- the writer's intention.

You can sometimes (but not always) see what a question is testing by reading the first part without the options (a-d). Turning it into a direct question can also help.

3 Read the Reading Strategy. Then circle the correct answers.

- 1 Nearly three quarters of teenagers
- a aspire to play better sport.
- b have found the sport they are looking for.
- c haven't played any sport.
- d would like to play sport if it was less expensive.
- 2 The aim of the charity is to

  - b organise local sporting activities cheaply.
  - c advise young people on how to succeed in life.
  - d provide intensive sports training for teenagers.

  - b selected by both boys and girls.
  - c more popular than dance classes.
  - d not as popular as football.
- 4 The writer wants
  - a to encourage teenagers to join the sports project.
  - b young children to contact the organisation.
  - c young people to pay for sporting activities.
  - d to help young people at home.

Who are we?

StreetGames is a sports charity that changes lives and communities. We are proud to give young people exactly what they are looking for - the chance to enjoy sport, give back to their communities and aspire to greater things. Seventy-one percent of young people have said that they would like the chance to try more sporting activities, but that they can't afford to.

What do we do?

'Doorstep Sport' is what we do - we bring sport close to home in disadvantaged communities, at the right time, for the right price and in the right style. Sport is great! It provides fitness, fun and friendship opportunities, and since 2007 we have been using it to improve the lives of countless young people. It teaches them skills and knowledge which they can then use to make their own way in life.

What do we offer?

We have been speaking to a lot of young people about sports they would like to be involved in, and these are the answers: boys between the ages of 16 and 19 have voted for playing football, badminton and tennis, going swimming, cycling, running and to the gym and doing adventure sports. The girls have chosen similarly, except for netball rather than football, plus dance and fitness classes. Multi-sports sessions have also proved popular with everyone.

What do we want?

We are bringing sport to your neighbourhood, and we need some assistance. We are looking for young volunteers for this task. We need young people both to take part in our wonderful sporting activities and also to look after and coach the younger children. So, if you are aged 16-19, contact us if you would like to be involved. We need YOU!

Last Thursday was the first meeting of the fitness club. This is a new club which I have organised with two classmates. We all love sport and PE and we thought it would be a good idea to encourage other people to be more active. We met in the gym after school and then we went out onto the playing field. Luckily the weather was Fifteen students turned up for the club. Eight of them were girls and seven were boys, and we all spent an hour doing a variety of games and exercises. For example, we played volleyball in the gym and football on the playing field.

All in all, I think the meeting was a success. Fifteen students is a good number, especially for a first meeting, although it would of course be better with more. Everybody took part very enthusiastically, which is very encouraging.

In the future, I hope to organise a wider variety of games and sports. I also plan to advertise the club better, with posters on the main noticeboard and an article in the school newspaper. I'd also like us all to enter a fun run next spring. We could even wear special costumes!

Writing Guide

Writing Strategy

Where there is a word limit for a writing task make sure you keep within it. If you go over the limit, decide which words you can delete. For example, there may be unnecessary adjectives or examples, or irrelevant details. When you have cut the words, make sure that a) the text still makes sense, and b) all of the points in the task are still covered.

| 4 | Read the Writing Strategy. Which two of the five   |
|---|--|
|   | underlined sentences in the text could you delete? |

| 1st sentence 2nd sentence | 3rd sentence 4th sentence | 5th sentence |

5 Read the task. Then make notes for each point (a-d). Use the questions (1-4) below to give you ideas.

You have joined a new club at school and attended your first session. Write a blog post about it.

- a Say when and where it took place.
- b Say who attended the session and what happened.
- c Suggest how the club could improve its activities.
- d Make a request for some equipment.
- 1 What club is it? Where / When was the session? How many people were there? What did you do?
- 2 Did you enjoy the session? What was the best / worst thing about it?
- 3 What would make the club better?
- 4 What equipment does the club need? Why?
- 6 Write a blog post. Use your notes from exercise 5.

CHECK YOUR WORK Have you ... covered all four points in the task? written clearly and concisely with no irrelevant details? checked your spelling and grammar?

Reading

Exam Strategy

When you don't understand specific words or phrases, you can often work out their meaning from the context. Concentrate on the language that you already know to work out the meaning of the words, or of that part of the text.

1 Read the Strategy. Then read the extract below and try to work out the meaning of any unknown words. Then circle the correct answer (A-D).

It is clear that interest in hobbies is changeable, but a few hobbies have stood the test of time. A conspicuous example of this is collecting. Anything is collectible if someone decides to collect it. And it is a curious fact that even objects with little intrinsic value can become exorbitantly priced if enough people demonstrate a desire for them.

What fact about collecting does the author point out?

- A Very valuable objects are the most popular.
- B All collectibles are extremely expensive.
- C Objects of little value can become very expensive.
- D Certain types of objects are popular collectibles.
- 2 Read three texts. Circle the correct answer (A-D).

For some reason, I was never thrilled by the hobbies my family and friends attempted to interest me in. When I was younger, my mum and sisters tried to get me into scrapbooking, but I failed to see the point. My friends' passion for skateboarding and martial arts like karate didn't catch my interest either. My dad tried to get me involved in his hobby, model planes, but I didn't have the patience for it. Then my mum and I started chatting with a neighbour who grew rare plants. One tour of her greenhouse, and I was hooked. Of course my friends were very surprised – and still are – but I am sure that plants will be a lifelong passion.

- 1 The writer suggests that
  - A his friends don't understand his hobby.
  - B he and his mother share the same interests.
  - C he used to be interested in skateboarding.
  - D he is keen on making things at home.

Hobby-related holidays are on the way to becoming one of the most lucrative forms of tourism, and younger people are definitely joining in. Of course, sports-related camps have been a huge part of tourism for ages, but what if you're someone with little interest in tennis or basketball? A good option for you might be a twoweek photography tour – with stunning scenery, ancient buildings and sometimes even underwater photography. Alternatively, if you are interested in nature, you can spend two weeks in an exotic location helping to identify rare plants and animals – while soaking up some sun and meeting like-minded people.

- 2 What does the writer say about hobby-related holidays?
  - A They have existed for a long time.
  - B They are mainly sports-related.
  - C They are usually for young people.
  - D They are popular and varied.

Reading Strategy

When matching questions with texts, follow these steps.

- 1 Read the text to get a general idea of the meaning.
- 2 Read the task's lead-in line very carefully. (In which paragraph ...). Then read all the options carefully.
- 3 Read the paragraphs of the text carefully one by one and match them to the correct option.
- 4 If you can't find the answer, leave it for now and come back to it later when you have fewer options left.

3 Read the Reading Strategy. Then match paragraphs A–C with questions 1–4 below. One paragraph matches two questions.

In which paragraph does the author ...

- 1 suggest that students might be safer if the school start time were changed?
- 2 refer to evidence that shows that adults' body clocks are different from those of teenagers?
- 3 quote the results of a study that confirms the conclusions of British scientists?
- 4 mention some practical problems that might result www.pardistalk/ir/library from a change in the start time?

What time should school start?

- A The debate in the USA about whether to start school later has been running for many years. Ask any American teenager arriving at school at 7.30 a.m. and they will tell you that it's difficult to memorise chemical formulae or lists of vocabulary so early in the morning. Is it just laziness, or is there a biological reason for this? Studies by scientists in the UK show that teenagers naturally want to go to bed about two hours later than adults and also get up later. This trend begins at about the age of thirteen and continues right through the teenage years. The scientists conclude that students inevitably feel tired in the morning and will therefore perform worse at school before lunch.
- B Schools in some US states have tested this theory, and the findings back up the science. By delaying the start of school by just one hour, academic achievement has risen, absenteeism has declined and cases of depression among teenagers have also fallen. One study that involved 9,000 students revealed that grades in maths, English and science all rose when school began at 8.35 a.m. or later. Studies in other countries such as Brazil, Italy and Israel also show that later start times improve learning.
- C However, not everyone advocates changing the school timetable. They claim that it would cause a huge amount of disruption. Others are opposed to the change because students won't have time for after-school activities or part-time jobs. However, one benefit of a later start time may yet convince the doubters. A study in Wyoming showed that car crashes among 16-18-year-olds fell by 70% after the start time was changed from 7.35 a.m. to 8.55 a.m. More studies need to be carried out before a definite link can be made between the number of accidents and the school start times, but it is undeniable that it is less safe to drive when you feel sleepy.

| are overweight and unfit. Some people argue that teaching children at school about a healthy lifestyle would help to solve this problem.  B In my view, it would be very sensible to teach students how to lead a healthy lifestyle. Health problems later in life often start because people get into bad habits during their teenage years. It is sometimes said that this is the responsibility of the parents and not the school. But as I see it, everyone in society would benefit from this.  C In order to tackle this problem, time should be set aside in the school timetable to teach children about the benefits of eating healthily and getting lots of exercise. Moreover, doctors could also play a part by coming into school and talking to students. I suggest that one or two hours a week should be spent on this topic.  D To sum up, I agree with those people who believe that healthy living should be taught in schools. It seems to me that the students themselves and society in general would benefit from this proposal. | Read the task and the Writing Strategy above. # Strange places to live in ...

A THE SLIDE HOUSE, JAPAN

Did you love going down the slide in the playground as a child? Perhaps you secretly wish you still could? If so, then the Slide House in Japan is the house for you!

Japanese architects have designed an unusual three-storey house with a huge slide that connects each level. This fun house has two staircases on one side going up, and the slide on the other going down, and together they form a circular route around the central area of the house.

The house is in the suburbs of Tokyo, and it functions as a real family home.

B THE SKATEBOARD HOUSE, USA

Are you a skateboarding fan? Would you like to live in a house where you could skateboard everywhere? This is exactly what a former skateboard champion wants to build in California. It will be the first house that can be entirely used for skateboarding as well as living in.

A prototype of the house is currently on display in a French museum. It has three spaces: a living area, a sleeping area and a skateboard practice area. However, you can skateboard everywhere because the floor becomes the wall and then the ceiling in a continuous curve. You can also skate on and off all the furniture!

THE GIANT SEASHELL HOUSE, MEXICO

If you've ever wondered what it would feel like to live inside a seashell, then this house in Mexico City would be the home for you. This amazing shell-shaped house was designed and built in 2006. As strange as it looks, it's a real home built for a family. The parents were tired of having a traditional house and wanted to live in a home that was inspired by nature.

All the walls and furniture in the house are curved and all the surfaces are smooth. There are round windows and doors, coloured glass walls and even flowers growing in all the rooms.

| Hi Madison, I hope all is well with you. Did I tell you I'm moving house soon? We need to move out of our flat because the landlord is selling it, so we're going to live with my cousins for a few months. They don't live far away – in a small village about twenty miles from here. My cousin Joe is a really nice guy. He's the same age as me and he's got dark hair and brown eyes. My cousin Samantha looks a bit like you. She is tall, with curly hair and green eyes. She's great fun. You'd like them.  My cousins' house is quite large and includes a new extension, but it will still be a bit crowded. There are four bedrooms in the house and two in the extension, I think, but I'm going to sleep in the conservatory!  Better get back to my homework. Would it be OK if I borrowed your tennis racket this weekend? I've got one, but I can't find it. I think Mum might have already packed it!  Bye for now.  Lisa |

Reading

Exam Strategy

In a multiple-choice task, at least one of the incorrect options is usually 'almost' correct. If you are undecided between two options, decide which one is the closest to what is said in the text.

1 Read the Strategy. Then read the questions followed by the text. Which option is correct according to the text? Which options seem correct at first? Why aren't they correct?

Stephen bent down to pick up the fork, and when he stood up, he banged his head on the edge of the cupboard. It was not a light tap, but a powerful blow that nearly knocked him back down to the floor. Just managing to stay upright, he held his head with both hands and let out a shout. It wasn't pain he felt so much as surprise and, even more, anger with himself. When would he learn to be more careful?

- 1 The blow to Stephen's head
  - A knocked him down.
  - B almost made him fall down.
  - C happened as a result of falling down.
  - D occurred after he had fallen down.
- 2 What did Stephen feel as a result of the blow?
  - A extreme frustration
  - B extreme pain
  - C no pain at all
  - D embarrassment

2 Now read the extract from a story. Circle the correct answer (A-D).

The Pennine Way is a 469-kilometre walking path which runs from the Peak District in Derbyshire to just inside the Scottish border. Other trails go further, but it is known as the most challenging. This is because of the nature of the landscape, which is hilly, rocky and often very muddy. Some people see this trail as an opportunity to take a pleasant day's hike on a small section of the route, but eighteen-year-old David Lemming saw it as a challenge. 'I'd come across a great account of hiking the whole trail, written a few years ago, and I was determined to do it myself. A friend was going with me, but he changed his mind. So I promised my parents I'd check in daily on my mobile, and I'd also post pictures on my social media page. I didn't feel anxious - I was just excited to get going.

Things went perfectly for the first week. David made good progress and was really enjoying the experience. Since many people use the trail, he was constantly meeting fellow hikers, so he never felt isolated. 'But then it got really stormy,' he says, 'so a lot of people gave up. I could go for hours without seeing anyone at all. But as long as I had my mobile, I wasn't really worried about anything bad happening.

Unfortunately, something bad did happen. During a particularly heavy rain storm, David slipped in the mud, went off the edge of the trail and fell about ten metres down the hill. 'I realised I'd broken my arm immediately, but I knew my location and thought I could still call for help. Then I found that my mobile had fallen out of my pocket. And when I tried to get up to look for it, I couldn't stand up at all. My leg was injured too.'

All he could do was to shout for help. 'I yelled until my throat was sore,' he says. 'And nothing happened. But then I saw a head at the top of the hill - someone had heard me. A man came down, saw the state I was in and called for help. And really, that was the most amazing part of the whole experience. At the hospital, even the doctors were impressed at how much of the trail I'd covered. I felt really proud.' Will he try to walk the trail again? 'Absolutely,' he says. 'It's a fantastic place, and nothing can keep me away.'

- 1 The Pennine Way is
  - A the longest trail in Britain.
  - B located mainly in Scotland.
  - C not popular with inexperienced walkers.
  - D considered a difficult trail to walk.
- 2 Where did David get the idea of hiking the trail?
  - A from reading about it
  - B from his parents
  - C from hearing an account of it
  - D from being challenged by a friend
- 3 How did David get help after his accident?
  - A He called for help on his mobile.
  - B He spoke to a passer-by.
  - C He called out until someone heard him.
  - D He returned to the trail and found someone.
- 4 What is the best title for the article?
  - A A Foolish Adventure
  - B How a Mobile Saved a Boy's Life
  - C Near Tragedy, But No Regrets
  - D Fear and Tragedy on the Pennine Way

Exam Strategy

When doing a gapfill task, you will sometimes be able to use the exact words that the speaker uses. Often, however, you will have to paraphrase what the speaker says by using fewer words to express the same meaning.

3 Read the Strategy above. Then read the extracts from five different recordings and complete the missing words in the sentences.

Q Liam I made a big effort to meet new people and form new friendships.

Sally I'm sorry, but I'd rather not empty the rubbish bins right now.

We had the time of our life in Paris. Arlo

Julia I'll have a word with the nurse.

Marty I hate the fact that my bedroom has purple walls!

Listening Strategy

You may have to distinguish fact from opinion in a listening task. Listen for clues to help you decide. An opinion might begin with a verb connected with thinking (e.g. think, believe, expect, reckon, etc.) or a phrase for introducing opinions (in my view, as I see it, etc.).

2 1.23 Read the Listening Strategy. Then listen to four short dialogues. Are the sentences below facts (F) or opinions (O)?

|   |  | F | 0 |

| 2 | Smartwatches will get cheaper over the next few years.               |   |   |
| 3 | Watching films on a tablet is more popular than going to the cinema. |   |   |
| 4 | People buy fewer gadgets now than they bought in the past.           |   |   |

  - a There is no map app on their phone.
  - b Mobile phone reception is not reliable.

RODOCUP

RoboCup is a football competition that has taken place every year since 1997. But the players are not human; they are robots. The competition's full name is 'Robot Soccer World Cup', and the aim is to create, by the middle of the 21st century, a team of robot footballers that are able to play against and beat the winners of the real World Cup.

In order for robots to play football, robotics companies have had to develop special

In order for robots to play football, robotics companies have had to develop spetechnologies. A robot can't just run onto the field and start kicking the ball. So each robot is fitted with a webcam which is connected to a computer inside the robot. The robot is able to see where the other players are, where the goal is and, most importantly, where the ball is. They are programmed to make their own decisions and during the match the robots' creators are not allowed to tell them what to do. The robots are, however, able to communicate with other members of their team, via a wireless network. They might, for example, communicate a message like this to a team-mate: 'I'm nearest the ball. I'm going to kick it. You go and defend the goal.' They know who to pass to and how best to get the ball past an opponent. Australian, German and American teams dominate the competition, though teams from twelve countries competed at the last tournament.

There is a long way to go before robots will be able to compete against humans. They need to become more intelligent and become able to react more quickly and anticipate the game. But the technologies that are being developed for scoring goals have other uses as well. It may be possible to develop robots that can be used in search and rescue, for example, finding people trapped in buildings after earthquakes.

They may not be as fun to watch as real footballers, but at least they don't demand enormous salaries!

Reading Strategy

When you are doing a gapped-sentence task:

- 1 Fill in the easiest gaps first.
- 2 When you have filled all the gaps, try the extra sentences in each gap again to make sure they don't fit.
- 3 Read the whole text again, checking your answers.
- 3 Read the Reading Strategy. Then match sentences A-F with gaps 1–4 in the text. There are two extra sentences.
  - A It's important to do something that catches people's attention.
  - B He thought the job offer was too good to be true.
  - C He found a place at the top of the stairs at Bank Station in the heart of London's financial district.
  - D Although the first day had resulted in some interesting conversations, nothing had come of them.
  - E Omar used to help them at weekends.
  - F He was offered £5,000 more than his current job.

Omar had qualified with a good degree in economics from City University, London, and had been working in a basic marketing job for some time. In order to further his career, he had applied for nearly 100 jobs, but without success. He said, 'The graduate job market is extremely competitive and good grades are not good enough. 2

So he took advice from his father, who he greatly admired. His father and uncle used to have market stalls in Petticoat Lane which sold women's clothes and mobile phone accessories. 3___ 'I picked up a lot of my selling skills from there,' Omar said. His father told him, 'You can sell anything.' So then Omar decided that the time had come to sell himself.

On the second day, Omar stood outside another underground station, this time Cannon Street, with the same sign. 4___ Early on the second day, however, he was noticed by the CEO of a top insurance firm, who took his CV. He was called in for an interview that afternoon, and at the end of the day he had a job. David Ross, who gave Omar the interview, said, 'Omar's work ethic, inclusive nature, willingness to learn and humility means that he has fitted straight into the organisation.'

Reading

Exam Strategy

When matching headings with paragraphs, focus on the first and last sentences in each paragraph first. These often introduce and summarise the contents of a paragraph, so they may help you to identify the correct heading. It is still very important to read the whole paragraph carefully before making your choices.

- 1 Read the Strategy above. Then read the first and last lines of two paragraphs and match them with headings A and B.
  - 1 Not everyone can manage a part-time job, interests and school work at the same time. ... So carefully consider your need for free time before deciding to take on a job.
  - 2 Working while you're a student can broaden your view of the world. ... Learning that not everyone is thinking about school issues is a useful lesson.

| Α | Work  | provides | a wider | experience  | of life (   |     |
|---|-------|----------|---------|-------------|-------------|-----|
| _ | VVOIN | provides | avvide  | CAPCITCITCE | OI III C. [ | - 1 |

- B Leisure activities may be more important than a job.
- 2 Now read the article. Match the headings (A–F) with the paragraphs (1–4). There are two extra headings.

A weekend job is an attractive idea for many of us. Weekend work is a break from school routine, and it provides some extra spending money. It can also give us a chance to explore the working world and gain a bit of experience.

Unfortunately, there aren't many weekend jobs for school-aged people these days. Since the economic troubles of the early 2000s, many part-time jobs have been taken by adults who need the work – meaning fewer jobs for us.

Young people can still find ways to earn money if they think creatively. Start by studying your house. Are there chores which no one seems to have time for? Offer to tidy the garden, paint the fence or clear out the garage – for a fee.

4 ____

Neighbours are a well-known source of income too. Babysitting is a traditional job, and if you're good at it, you can earn respect and money. Gardening, washing people's cars and cleaning windows are also dependable possibilities.

- A The benefits of weekend work
- B Some jobs are not right for us
- C What's happened to jobs for young people?
- D Traditional jobs in the community
- E Get help in finding work
- F Earning money can begin at home

The city of Łódź in Poland was another unremarkable industrial city until a few years ago. In 2009, an organisation called the Urban Forms Foundation was set up by a well-known art historian and an actress. Their idea was to bring the tired urban landscape to life again.

The Foundation planned an art project that would change the city's image and regenerate the centre, and presented it to the city council. It wanted the council to ask street artists to paint on walls around the city centre as a permanent outdoor exhibition. The mayor of the city supported the idea and the Foundation was given permission to go ahead and raise the money needed. Famous street artists from all over the world were invited by the Foundation to come to Poland to work, including Os Gemeos from Brazil, Aryz from Spain and Remed from France, as well as local talent like M-City and Etam Cru. In total, artists from eight countries took part in the project over the next few years, and more than twenty huge murals were created on the sides of buildings in

Łódź is now the second city in the world for street art after New York, and people visit there especially to see the amazing artworks. With a special map, tourists can walk round the city and view them all in a couple of hours. Now, once a year, the Foundation organises an art festival which attracts participants from all over the world. And in the future, the project will be continued with other pieces of urban art – statues, sculptures and 'street www.pardistalk.ir/library

Article: a film review

I can write a film review.

Preparation

Your teacher has asked you to write a film review for the school magazine. Write your review describing the film and say what you liked and didn't like about it.

- Read the task above. Then read Writing Strategy 1 and the review below. Answer the questions.
  - a Where does each paragraph end?
    - Paragraph 1: A or B

An extraordinary film about an extraordinary man!

If you're looking for a film that has romance and drama and makes you think, this is the one for you! I loved The Theory of Everything, from start to finish. A And I have no doubt that it'll remain one of my favourite films for many years to come! I'd definitely recommend it. B It is mostly set in Cambridge, England, and it tells the story of Stephen Hawking, a physicist at Cambridge University, who was diagnosed with motor neurone disease while still in his early twenties. We see how, with the help of Jane – his girlfriend and then wife - he overcame great physical disabilities to become probably the world's most famous scientist. [C] What I really loved about the film is the way it involves you in the characters. I felt that I really got to know them, and found their story incredibly moving. D I thought the acting was first-class, with superb performances from Eddie Redmayne and Felicity Jones. The film was also beautifully filmed, with lots of atmospheric shots of Cambridge. E I have only one small criticism. We learn a lot about Jane and Stephen's relationship, but we learn nothing about Stephen Hawking the scientist, and what motivates him. [F] Overall, however, this is a fantastic film. If you haven't seen it yet, get the DVD. You won't be disappointed! I guarantee it.

Writing Strategy 2

- 1 Choose a good title for your article.
- 2 In the first paragraph, attract the reader's attention. You can do this by addressing him / her directly, especially with questions.
- 3 Use an appropriate style and register for the target audience.
- 2 Read Writing Strategy 2 and answer questions 1–3 below.
  - 1 Underline the sentence that attracts the reader's attention in the first paragraph.
  - 2 Is the overall style formal or informal?
  - 3 Has the writer addressed both elements of the task? Yes No
- 3 Tick the phrases for describing stories that the writer uses in the article. Which phrase cannot be used to describe a film?
  - 1 It's set in (place and / or time).
  - 2 There are lots of twists and turns.
  - 3 It tells the story of (character).
  - 4 I would definitely recommend it.
  - 5 It's a real page-turner.

Phrase can't be used for films.

Writing Guide

Reading Strategy

Read the missing sentences carefully. Then read the sentences in the text that come before and after each gap. Use these two strategies when selecting which sentence fits each gap.

- 1 Look for vocabulary links between the sentence and the surrounding text.
- 2 Look for pronouns, e.g. he, she, it and other references and check that they match your answer choice.

- 4 Read the Reading Strategy. Then match sentences A-F with gaps 1-4 in the text. There are two extra sentences.
  - A That's short!
  - B Nobody reads books any more, do they?
  - C They argue, for example, that fewer people read novels and write letters.
  - D There is, in fact, a lot we can learn from other cultures with a different writing tradition.
  - E Now writers are using this genre again, but with a modern day twist.
  - F Literature has suffered as a result.

People complain nowadays that the popularity of media like Twitter has reduced our ability to read for long periods of time and to write properly. 1___ It's also true that tweets are written by normal people, not professional authors, and that sometimes little attention is paid to correct grammar and spelling in digital messages. But are the new media only bad news for our literary tradition?

In Japan, for example, the most popular form of poetry has long been the haiku, in which every word counts. A haiku is a poem with exactly seventeen syllables. Not words, but syllables. 3___ So with this method of writing, a lot of meaning has to be conveyed in a short space. This philosophy of 'less is more' made Japan the natural place for the birth of the cell phone novel with its very short chapters.

Other storytelling traditions using shorter forms have also been adapted to our modern tastes. The epistolary novel is a book written as a series of letters, or sometimes diaries. The genre used to be admired in Europe in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. 4___ Authors of teenage novels now often use emails, diary entries, text messages and cartoons to tell a story.

So perhaps these shorter styles of writing are not bad for literature as a whole. Perhaps they are just modern ways of expressing the age-old tradition of storytelling.

Exam Strategy

In true | false | not given tasks, you must look for clear evidence in the text to support a 'true' or 'false' answer. If there is no information in the text to confirm or contradict the statement, then the answer is 'not given'.

1 Read the Strategy. Then read the text below. Are statements 1–4 true (T), false (F), or not given (NG)?

Anna Pavlova (1881–1931) was a famous Russian ballet dancer. She first fell in love with ballet when she was taken to see a performance of Tchaikovsky's Sleeping Beauty. She was eight years old at the time. Pavlova studied ballet at the Imperial Ballet School in St Petersburg. Students there had to get up early and have a cold shower. Lessons started after breakfast and continued until the evening, with very few breaks during the day.

| 1 | Anna Pavlova was born in 1882. |
|---|--------------------------------|
| 2 | She was born in St Petersburg. |

3 She had her first ballet lesson when she was eight.

4 Anna had lots of free time at the Imperial Ballet School.

2 Read the text. Are the sentences true (T), false (F), or not given (NG)?

Still life

The other day, I was walking through the city when a silver statue caught my eye. It was a statue of a man in a suit looking into the distance. I wondered why so many people were standing there looking at it. Suddenly it turned its head and looked right at me before tapping me on the shoulder with its umbrella. I jumped and laughed. It was, of course, a living statue – and it had scared the life out of me!

Living statues are street performers who make their money by dressing up to look as if they're made of stone, metal, glass or wood. They stand still for long periods of time, moving now and then to remind people that they are actually real people. It's an artistic tradition that started more than five hundred years ago, when groups of actors started performing tableaux vivants. These were still and silent groups of people in costumes who were arranged to represent a particular scene or event.

Nowadays, most living statues work alone. Matt Walters has been working as a living statue for over 25 years. He usually dresses as a chimney sweep, covered from head to toe in very dark grey paint. He does all his make-up himself. 'Covering myself in paint and using the right stuff to get it all off again afterwards costs me about £10 a day,' he says, but he won't tell me how much he earns as a living statue when I ask him.

I hope it's a lot. Working as a human statue is a demanding job. Passers-by can be rude, and living statues are regularly pushed or even attacked by members of the public. Standing still for long periods of time isn't easy and it can cause health problems. Walters is helped by the fact that he's a marathon runner. He can drop his heart rate down to just 28 beats per minute, so people don't see him breathe.

Living statues have a lot of fun too. Chris Clarkson performs as a Greek statue who has a fountain of water. 'One day, I could see two children who wanted me to splash them,' he says. 'So I did, and the audience loved it. I got a lot of money. Then

Listening

Exam Strategy

In all listening tasks, you are able to listen twice. Get as much information as you can from the statements, then listen the first time and make your matches. During the second listening, recheck your matches, concentrating on questions that you were unsure about the first time.

3 Read the Strategy above. Then read statements 1–3 quickly and match them with extracts from recordings A–C. Then check your answers.

| ٠. | reek your answers.                                   |

Speaking

Exam Strategy

Ask your partner lots of questions to keep the conversation going. When answering your partner's questions, avoid giving short answers. Expand upon your answers, giving reasons and examples.

It's the end of term and you want to say 'thank you' to one of your teachers. First, decide which teacher you want to thank. Then decide which of the items in photos A-C would be most suitable and talk about when and where you will give the gift.

9 Work in pairs. Find out which 'thank you' from exercise 8 your partner would like to receive, and why. Then talk about other ways you can thank someone.

Listening

Travel solutions

I can identify the context of a conversation and its register.

Revision: Student's Book page 99

Complete the collocations with the verbs below.

| board book check inhail hire miss reach |                               |

| 7   | a car                         |
| 8   | your flight / your train      |

Listening Strategy 1

It is sometimes difficult to catch names and proper nouns when you listen. However, you can use the words around them (including collocations) to work out what they are (a person, a place, etc.). For example, if you hear 'We stayed four nights at the Grand Plaza', the underlined words tell you that the Grand Plaza is a hotel.

- 2 2.12 Read Listening Strategy 1. Then listen to three short dialogues and answer the questions.
  - 1 In dialogue 1, how are they planning to travel to their hotel?
  - 2 In dialogue 2, what is the Aurora?
  - 3 In dialogue 3, what does the man think he's lost?
- 3 2.12 Listen again. Which verbs from exercise 1 helped you answer the questions in exercise 2?

| Dialogue 1:   |  |  |  |
|---------------|--|--|--|
| Dialogue 2: _ |  |  |  |
| Dialogue 3:   |  |  |  |

Listening Strategy 2

Being aware of formal register can help you identify the context. Formal terms used in announcements include:

adjacent to (next to) beverages (drinks) to commence (to begin) to depart (to leave) due to (because of) prior to (before) to proceed to (to go to) to purchase (to buy) refreshments (food and drink) to terminate (to end)

4 Read Listening Strategy 2. Then complete the sentences with formal words from the Strategy that mean the same as the words in brackets.

| 1 | Will all passengers for Mila | an please(go                       |

Imagine you were in the middle of a long-distance flight. How would you feel if you were told that your plane had run out of fuel? That's what happened to passengers on an Air Canada flight in 1983. The plane was the first to use metric measurements. However, the fuel gauge wasn't working, so the captain calculated the fuel needed but in pounds, not kilograms. This resulted in the plane only carrying half the amount it needed. It ran out of fuel above a place called Gimli. Fortunately, the pilot was able to land there safely with minimal fuel, earning the plane the nickname the 'Gimli Glider'.

B Crossing the new Millennium Bridge for the first time in June 2000, the people of London got a more thrilling journey to work than they expected. As they passed over the River Thames, the footbridge started to swing. It was a beautiful, elegant bridge, designed especially for the new century. Unfortunately, the designers hadn't calculated the effect of thousands of people walking on it at the same time. Although it wasn't particularly dangerous, the bridge was very wobbly, especially when it was windy. It had to be closed for nearly two years while the design was modified, at great expense.

Reading Strategy

When a statement can match more than one text, you need to make sure you have matched all of the possible texts to each statement. First decide which text matches with a particular statement. Then check that none of the other texts match the statement.

3 Read the Reading Strategy. Then match the texts (A–C) with statements 1–4. One text matches with two statements.

1 This mistake could have had fatal results.

2 More than one person was responsible for this mistake.

3 This problem took a long time to fix.

4 The mistake was due to lack of knowledge rather than miscalculation.

c In 1912, explorer Robert Scott fatally miscalculated the amount of food his team would need while trying to become the first to reach the South Pole. His team had rations of 4,500 calories per day. If Scott had known more about physical health at that time, he would have taken nearly double that amount of food. So the team must have lost about 25 kg of weight before they got to the Pole. The journey was doubly tragic for Scott. He was beaten to the South Pole by Norwegian explorer Roald Amundsen and, worse, he and his men died of starvation on the return journey, just eleven miles from their next food supply.

Dear Sir or 1

I am writing to enquire about the possibility of renting Hillside Cottage for three weeks in the summer.

I will be travelling to the Lake District with my parents and brother. We plan to arrive in London on 14 July, but do not wish to hire a car. I would be grateful if you could inform me of the best way to reach the cottage by public transport.

Although the advertisement states that the cottage has two bedrooms, it is not clear whether the second room is large enough for two people to share. I wonder if you could clarify this point.

Finally, I would like to know what leisure activities are available in the area surrounding the cottage. We are particularly interested in horse riding.

I look forward to receiving your reply in due course.

Yours<sup>2</sup>

Tom Baker

Writing Strategy 2

- 1 Divide your letter into paragraphs.
- 2 In the first paragraph, which can be a single sentence, say why you are writing.
- 3 Each paragraph should have its own topic. It is usually best to deal with the four points in the task in four separate paragraphs.
- 4 In the final paragraph, which can be a single sentence, say that you expect a reply.
- 5 Avoid colloquial language and short forms.

3 Read Writing Strategy 2. Then read the task and answer the questions below.

You are planning to visit the Lake District this summer with your family and have seen an advertisement for a cottage. Write a letter to the owner in which you:

- give information about the people travelling.
- ask about travelling to the cottage.
- request information about the bedrooms.
- ask about leisure facilities in the area.

Reading

Exam Strategy

First, try to understand the general idea of each paragraph. This will help you decide where each of the missing sentences should go. Make sure that the sentence you put in the gap fits with the general topic of the paragraph.

1 Read the Strategy. Then read the text in exercise 2. Match the paragraphs with the descriptions below.

In this paragraph, the writer

- A describes an option which involves exchanging something.
- B recommends getting to know the local way of life when you travel.
- C says that more adventurous accommodation can teach you more about local life.
- D talks about a change in what people want from travel.
- 2 Now read the text again. Complete the gaps (1–4) in the text with the missing sentences (A-F). There are two extra sentences.
  - 1 Staying in hotels and resorts has been a traditional part of travel since mass tourism began. But nowadays, many tourists want a more intimate experience. 1___ This often means staying in the kinds of places that local people inhabit. In big cities, try staying with the friend of a friend. You may end up sleeping on the couch or the floor, but the advantages outweigh the discomfort. The biggest plus is that you'll be staying with a local and seeing the city from a local perspective.
  - Another option is house-swapping. 2___ It's usual to exchange emails about favourite places in the city before the swap, meaning you can have a truly local experience. But of course, you can only do this if you don't mind having strangers staying in your house.
  - 3 For the more adventurous, staying in a native structure in an African village or a hut on the water in Vietnam or Thailand can be a real thrill. 3___ The experience of dealing with oil lamps and carrying water really gives you a sense of how the people live.
  - 4 No matter how unadventurous you feel, you might want to consider crossing hotels off your list. 4___ And what better way is there to do this than staying where the local people actually live?
  - A Unfortunately, these areas are becoming increasingly tourist-orientated.
  - B For this reason, they are choosing to 'go native'.
  - C Several websites allow you to connect with people who want to trade living situations.
  - D Of course this type of accommodation is not for everyone.
  - E Getting to know the local way of life is the most valuable part of travel.
  - F These might not even include plumbing or electricity, and that is part of the charm.

Volunteer blog

When I signed up to volunteer at a local hospital last year, I didn't have any real expectations. I decided to do it mainly because my friends were planning to do volunteer work, and our class attended a volunteer job fair that October, which made it easier to choose something interesting. I knew the experience would look good on my college applications, and that was a plus too.

On my first day, I was given a tour of the hospital. Then I was given a tablet computer with maps and some basic information. I was then told to stand next to an information sign and to answer any questions that came my way. I'm sure I sent a few visitors in the wrong direction that first day, but I did my best. It wasn't a big deal, and my second time there was much the same.

But on the third day, everything changed. I was in the middle of my shift when I noticed a wheelchair speeding in my direction. A young boy of about six with one of the biggest smiles I have ever seen was sitting in it. The boy stopped in front of me and said, 'Who are you? You're in my hospital and I don't even know you!'

I have to say that I've never been known for self-confidence. But this boy with his irresistible smile completely disarmed me. I introduced myself and explained that I was new. 'Like you know anything!' the boy said. 'I've been coming here for the past two years, so I know every inch of this hospital.'

David's parents caught up with him and introduced themselves. They explained that he was there for his weekly check-up, and they sat down for a bit while they waited. David began to tell me about his medical history, his favourite football player and other details of his life. Our conversation transformed my view of young children, illness and hospitals.

In fact, after David had gone to his appointment, one of the administrators came up to me and said, 'That was amazing.

You were a different person when you were talking to him!' She went on to explain that they needed volunteers to work in the children's department. 'And I think you'd be great at it,'

This led to my becoming a regular in the children's department, and also to my decision to study medicine at university and become a paediatrician. It was a career path that hadn't crossed my mind before. Volunteering might not do the same for everyone, but in my case it was a life-changer.

- A Did you know that the average secondary school student spends between 25 and 40 hours a week at school? And that isn't all – at home, most students have to do homework. This leaves little time for hobbies.
- B It is believed that happiness is the key to success: if you love what you're doing, you will be successful. This is true of school work and hobbies.
- C Teenagers have a lot of useful and fascinating hobbies which they do after school. I strongly believe this has advantages, and it can help students to get better results at school.

Reading

Strategy

When matching questions to paragraphs, read the questions first and think about what specific information you need to look out for in the paragraphs. Remember that two of the questions will match each paragraph.

2 Now read a text divided into three parts (A-C). Match the correct question (1-6) to the correct part of the text. Each part matches two questions.

A Device-centred communication has become almost universal over the past twenty years. More than three quarters of people in the world now own or have access to a mobile device, and more than half communicate via social networking. But no matter which format people favour - text, social media, photoor video-sharing - there is a worry that people are becoming less and less comfortable with face-to-face communication. Just recently, I found myself in the same room with two people who were both tapping away on their mobile phones. Later, I discovered that not only did the two people know each other, but that they had actually been communicating with each other online while they were sitting there in the same room. Situations like this may be amusing on one level, but on a deeper level they could be real cause for concern.

B Of course it is now hard to imagine a world without mobile devices like mobile phones and tablets. They are wonderful tools, allowing us to stay in touch with a large network of friends, no matter where they are. But many experts say that communicating with a device is nothing like talking to someone in person. 'Body language, eye contact and tone of voice can tell us so much, psychologist Mary Peters says. 'And none of those exist on a device. Even video chat removes many subtle clues.' She adds that there is no proof that this damages a person's ability to communicate effectively. But she worries that people might lose the ability to read non-verbal signals if they aren't frequently exposed to them.

C We don't know to what extent these technologies will permanently change the way people interact. Undoubtedly, people will always want to meet up with others in small and large groups just as they have always done. Indeed, it is fair to say that social media makes it easier than ever before for people to organise social events like festivals and parties. However, in my view, there is still a danger that device-centred communication may have a negative long-term impact on the way people interact with each other on a day-to-day basis.

We must not, therefore, lose sight of the need to focus on the actual people around us, and remember that they deserve our real - not virtual - attention. The idea of a culture where people always have a screen between them is not reassuring. 'Deep understanding comes when we see the reactions on other people's faces,' Mary Peterson says. 'With all the misunderstanding in the world today, face-to-face encounters are increasingly important.

In which paragraph does the author

Imagine the scene: two sisters in their seventies running to greet each other with tears in their eyes. 'Lizzie, Lizzie, how lovely!' shouts one. 'How lovely to see you in the flesh!' cries the other.

1_____ According to the Guinness World Records, the two women are the longest separated twins ever.

The twins' mother, Alice Lamb, was unable to bring up both girls because she was a domestic cook in the house of an employer. She gave Ann up for adoption because she was the healthier of the two. Ann was fourteen when she found out she was adopted, and once her adoptive mother died, she decided to start looking for her birth mother. <sup>2</sup>_____ With the help of her daughter, she also found a copy of Alice's birth certificate, and later the two discovered that Alice had married a man who already had a son called Albert.

Alice's stepson had died, but his son was able to tell them that Alice had a daughter in the USA. That was how they found out about Elizabeth.

Alice Lamb had originally intended for both of her daughters to be adopted, but in the end, she had to keep Elizabeth because of her poor health. At first, Elizabeth stayed with an aunt and then with a woman who did not care for her properly, prompting Alice to take Elizabeth to live with her in the house where she worked. Elizabeth remembers her mother telling her when she was fifteen that she was a twin, but at the time she thought it would be impossible to find her sister. 3____ So she was more than delighted to received Ann's letter in 2014, and minutes after reading it, the two were talking on the phone.

The reunion was arranged in Los Angeles at the invitation of psychologist Nancy Segal, who has been studying twins separated at birth for nearly forty years. During her studies, Ms Segal has discovered that twins growing up in completely different families can share many similar attitudes. 4 At first glance, the sisters appeared to have quite a lot in common: both had married men called Jim, who had recently died, so both women became widows. Both of them were grandmothers and evidence from photos shows that they both like to pose in front of the camera.

However, there were also big differences in their lives. After leaving school, Ann worked for a printer until she got married, and remained all her life in the town where she was born. Elizabeth left school to work in a sweet shop, but after going to night school, she joined the navy and moved to Malta. 5 Ms Segal is going to take a DNA sample from each twin and study all their similarities and differences to establish whether Ann and Elizabeth are identical or non-identical twins. As for the sisters themselves, the most remarkable thing for them is that after such a short time, they feel like they have known each other all their lives.

WHAT TIME IS THE MATCH?

Most of us are aware of the power of our body clock, the internal rhythms that turn us into 'larks' or 'owls', depending on when we prefer to sleep. But what effect does this biological phenomenon have on our sporting ability?

A study published recently in the journal Current Biology suggests that a competitor's sleeping habits can have a dramatic impact on their performance. Researchers asked 20 female hockey players to take part in the research. At six different times of day, the players had to perform a series of 20-metre runs in shorter and shorter times. The results revealed that as a group, the players performed better in the late afternoon. But when the individual player's performances were analysed, the figures told a very different story.

Researchers discovered a gap of around 26% between the best and the worst times achieved by the hockey players, depending on when they did the test. The early risers – the larks – performed best at 12.00, approximately eight hours earlier than the late risers – the owls – who peaked at around 20.00. The findings suggest that in every sports event, some athletes may be at a disadvantage because their bodies are not at their best at the time they compete. Their hearts could be pumping more slowly, their blood may be thicker and their muscles might not be as strong. Apparently, even a small divergence can be the difference between fourth place and producing a record-breaking performance.

Athletes can, however, benefit from the results of the study to improve their chances of winning. This is because the body clock can be adjusted. If they know when they perform best, competitors can adapt their sleeping time to the hour of their event in order to ensure their best performance, be it on the basketball court, the athletics track or in the swimming pool.

The study may also have implications in the selection of future sportsmen and women. Talent spotting among adolescents usually takes place during school hours, although it is a well-known fact that at least half of teenagers are 'owls'. This means that a huge number of high performers will only just be waking up when they are being observed and they won't have reached the point at which they perform best. This means that they may be missed by talent spotters who are testing at the wrong time of day.

But the place where the study has the greatest implications is on the football pitch. The findings suggest that problems with body clock could be the reason for England's struggles in the Champions League. These matches are usually played late in the evening, which gives an advantage to teams from countries such as Spain, which are more used to performing later in the day. This news will be reassuring for English football fans, who often despair at the performance of their players in international competitions.

Cumulative Review 3 (Units I-5)

- Los Angeles dancer, Brian Perez, was eating out with his friends one evening when suddenly everyone went quiet. To his horror, he saw that the reason for this was that people were checking their phones. Realising he had to do something to stop this, Brian made a rather daring suggestion. What if they all put their gadgets in a pile in the middle of the table until they had finished the meal? If anyone picked up their phone, that person would have to pay the whole bill. And so, it is said, the game of 'phone stacking' was born.
- B The necessity for action like this highlights a major problem in today's society: our inability to disconnect from technology. But while Brian's idea deals with the obsession in a social context, measures also need to be taken at home. Some people drop their smartphones into a box the moment they arrive home, which gives them the chance to interact with the people they live with. The fact that the phone cannot be heard – it is on silent – nor seen – the flashing lights are hidden by the box - means that they are no longer tempted to use it.
- C A less drastic solution is to ban electronic devices at certain times of day when the whole family is likely to be together, for example at meal times. This can be hard for everyone, from teenagers desperate to text friends to parents unable to switch off from work. On a normal day, however, dinner takes less than an hour, and the benefits of exchanging opinions and anecdotes with the rest of the family certainly makes up for the time spent offline.
- D Taking a break from technology is one thing, but knowing when to turn off a device is another. Time seems to stand still in the virtual world, and before you know it, you find that it is three o'clock in the morning. This is where a digital curfew comes in handy, a set time when all devices must be put away. Evenings without technology are usually nice and peaceful and make a more agreeable end to the day.
- E And then it's time for bed. One of the best ways of ensuring you can sleep at night is to ban electronic devices altogether from the bedroom. Lying next to a machine bursting with information is far from relaxing, and the sounds it emits during the night can easily wake you up. With technology out of the room, a line has been drawn between daytime and sleep time, which enables us to switch off ourselves and drift off to sleep.

56 Up

On ITV tonight, there's another chance to see part of the latest documentary in the Up series. Since the first instalment in 1964, director Michael Apted has been following the lives of fourteen British citizens from all walks of life, catching up with them every seven years to see what has changed. The participants were first filmed aged seven, when their social differences were already noticeable: some were living in children's homes while others were attending expensive private schools. The aim of the documentary has been to explore the idea that a child's future is already decided by the time he or she is seven years old. To find out how far the theory is true, you will have to watch tonight's programme, which shows the participants aged 56. Viewers who have seen the previous documentary may be in for some surprises!

  - c explore the differences between the classes in the UK.

Cumulative Review 4 (Units I-7)

If you thought 3D films were the latest in the world of cinema, then it's time for you to think again. A UK cinema chain is currently investing millions in new technology to bring 4DX films to their screens. The audience will sit in seats that move forwards and backwards and from side to side to simulate the action on screen. Meanwhile, water, air and smoke will be used to provide the rain, wind and fog of weather conditions, and special lighting will be used to create a storm. Aromas such as coffee will be pumped into the cinema to complete the experience, which will result in the audience being much closer to the drama in the film. The company's first 4DX cinema, complete with a curved screen measuring 10.5 m by 5.8 m, is already open for bookings.

Check the adverts on the site regularly and apply for any that seem interesting. Once you get your first job, make sure you turn up on time and find your contact person immediately. Pay attention at all times and follow the directions of the film crew. We often think of novels as places in 1_ ourselves, but the truth is that reading can have a much more far-reaching effect. The treatment has become more 4_ more common in recent years, and today it is practised 5_ psychologists - and librarians - all over the world. There is also scientific evidence in favour of the technique. After just six minutes with a book - any book - the people in the study found their stress levels reduced by up to 68%. # Alternative commuting

1 Urban cable car

The commute between the twin cities of El Alto and La Paz in Bolivia has always been a nightmare. The small white vans that serve as buses take over an hour to cover the winding 10 km route due to horrible traffic – which is why a new cable car system is being installed. Commuters can already use the first line, which carries them high above the houses from the shiny modern terminal at the top of the mountain to a similar one at the bottom. When all three lines are running – red, yellow and green to match the colours of the country's flag – the system will measure nearly 11 km, making it the longest urban cable car in the world.

2 Motorised canal boats

Formerly known as the 'Venice of the East', Bangkok has numerous waterways crossing the city. The Chao Phraya River runs through the centre, and there are also many canals carrying motorised canal boats. Commuters prefer these to the congested public transport on the roads because they are faster and often cheaper. One such route is the 18 km Saen Saep Canal, which is served by about 100 boats of 40 to 50 seats. The service operates from 5.30 a.m. to 8.30 p.m. on weekdays, closing at 7 p.m. at the weekend. The canal boats carry around 60,000 passengers each day, and fare collectors can often be seen jumping on and off the moving boats as they are arriving at or leaving a station.

3 Hanging train

Under normal circumstances, trains usually travel along tracks built into the ground. Not so the Wuppertal Suspension Train in Germany. This particular train is made up of carriages with wheels connected to the roof of the train so that it hangs from an elevated steel frame. The suspension railway runs along a route of 13.3 km at a height of between eight and twelve metres from the ground. The entire trip takes around 30 minutes. But the railway is not a recent addition to the city's transport system; the first track opened in 1901, making it the oldest electric elevated railway with hanging cars in the world. It is still in use today, moving around 25 million passengers each year.

4 Toboggan sled ride

To the east of Funchal on the island of Madeira lies a suburb called Monte. As the name suggests, the district looks over the city centre. In 1850, the residents created an innovative method of covering the few kilometres between the two sites more quickly: toboggans. These consisted of baskets with seats fixed onto wooden skis, which slid easily down the hill. The toboggan sled service began operating in the late nineteenth century, when uniformed pilots would guide the sleds from behind, using the rubber soles on their shoes as brakes. Today, the ride is merely a tourist attraction because of the cable car built at the turn of the millennium, which

A for and against essay

Many young adults choose to leave their parents' home in order to share a house with friends. Write an essay in which you present arguments for and against this course of action.

In the past, most people lived with their parents until they got married. But in the modern world, it's more common to leave home and share accommodation with friends. This choice has both positive and negative aspects.

There are several advantages to sharing with friends. Firstly, it gives you the opportunity to spend time with your friends and to build strong relationships with them. Secondly, it allows you to develop some of the practical skills that you will need as an independent adult. For instance, you will learn how to manage household bills, how to shop and cook, and so on. And thirdly, it makes living in your own home more affordable, and the more people who share, the more cost-effective it is. For instance, a shared house for six people is far cheaper than two houses for three people.

On the other hand, sharing a home has its disadvantages. Sharing a house can often cause disagreements. For instance, housemates often argue about household chores. What is more, it can be difficult to have time alone when you need it. And finally, the houses which young people share are sometimes in poor condition and landlords are not always good at repairing appliances when they break.

Although sharing a house with other young adults is not always easy, the advantages definitely outweigh the problems. It is certainly something I would like to do in a few years' time.

- The first paragraph should be an introduction. Include a thesis statement, which summarises the main issue.
- The second paragraph should focus on the advantages. If possible, include three.
- Give examples if possible, introduced by phrases like For example, ... or For instance, ... .
- Begin the third paragraph with a phrase like On the other hand, ... or However, ... to express contrast with the previous paragraph.
- The third paragraph should focus on the disadvantages. If possible, include three.
- The fourth paragraph should be the conclusion. State your opinion and decide whether the pros outweigh the cons or vice versa.

An article

Many people believe that animals living in zoos suffer. Write an article for your local newspaper in which you give your views. Present the advantages and the disadvantages.

- Choose a good title for your article.
- Start your article with an introduction which gets the reader's attention and introduces the topic.
- Include occasional rhetorical questions to make the style more engaging.
- Write in a simple, clear style appropriate to the publication (newspaper, magazine, etc.). Avoid language that is too formal.
- Make sure you split your article into paragraphs with different arguments in each paragraph, in a logical order.
- Include a short conclusion. This can detail your personal opinion, or the most important point in the article.

ARE ZOOS CRUEL TO ANIMALS?

Most major cities in the world have zoos, with lots of weird and wonderful animals in them. Many people love to go and see amazing creatures from all over the world. But is it cruel to keep animals in places like zoos?

Personally, I think that zoos are a good idea for two reasons. First of all, they are educational and school children can visit zoos to learn about animals from different countries. Secondly, they can also help to keep endangered species alive by providing a safe place for the animals to breed.

However, some people believe that zoos are cruel and that it is wrong to keep wild animals in small cages. They think that animals should live in their natural habitats and be free to move around instead of being kept behind bars for humans to look at.

While I understand the arguments of people who oppose zoos, I believe that the benefits outweigh the disadvantages. If the animals are safe and looked after well, then there is no problem with zoos.

An opinion essay

Many people believe that it is too late to reverse the harm which humans have done to the planet. Write an essay in which you present your opinion on this topic and suggest how people could limit further damage to the environment.

- The first paragraph should be an introduction. Include your thesis statement, which is a summary of your opinion on the issue.
- Write in an appropriately formal style, avoiding colloquial words and expressions.
- The second paragraph should focus on the first element of the task.
- Use appropriate linking words like Additionally, ... and However, ... to connect your ideas in a logical way.

- Give examples, if possible, introduced by phrases like For example, ..., For instance, ... and such as ....
- The third paragraph should focus on the second element of the task.
- The fourth paragraph should be the conclusion. Restate your opinion from paragraph one, but do not repeat it word for word.

For many decades, humans have been damaging the environment by polluting the atmosphere and the oceans. Global warming threatens to change the planet's climate forever and make large areas of it uninhabitable. In my opinion, it is impossible to reverse all of this damage, but we can certainly make a positive difference by changing our behaviour.

In recent years, there has been some progress in preventing pollution. For example, factories and car engines are far cleaner than they were fifty years ago. Additionally, some products that harm the atmosphere, such as aerosols that contain dangerous chemicals, are no longer available. However, some forms of pollution are more difficult to tackle. Plastic waste will remain in the environment for thousands of years. And although governments are attempting to limit carbon emissions, nobody is certain whether this will be enough to stop global warming. But it is important to remain positive and do everything we can to prevent further damage to our planet.

It is perfectly possible for individuals to limit their own impact on the environment. For example, they should save electricity by switching off lights, computers and other electrical appliances when they are not using them. As far as possible, they should avoid buying products with plastic packaging and drink water from a re-usable bottle.

In conclusion, I would say that we should all do what we can to prevent more damage to our environment. However, only time will tell whether this is enough to reverse the harm that has already been done.

A formal letter (complaint)

You and your family recently celebrated a special occasion in a small hotel but were unhappy with the experience. Write a letter of complaint to the hotel manager in which you describe what went wrong and suggest how the hotel could improve its service to customers.

Dear Sir or Madam,

I am writing to complain about a recent stay at the White Deer Hotel in Broadford between 8 and 10 May. The holiday had been arranged to celebrate my grandfather's 75th birthday and involved twelve family members. Unfortunately, the service we received from your hotel was completely inadequate and prevented us from enjoying what should have been a very special occasion.

Our problems began as soon as we arrived. The checkin process took more than an hour and it appeared the hotel was not expecting us, even though I had phoned the week before to confirm our reservation. After that, things went from bad to worse. For example, we had asked that my grandparents be given a superior double room. In fact, they were given a standard room overlooking the car park at the back of the hotel. When we complained, we were told that the hotel was full and a change of rooms was impossible.

May I suggest that in future the hotel makes better preparations for special events of this kind? You should make guests feel welcome from the moment they arrive. I also believe that your check-in procedure needs to be improved. For example, at busy times, more than one receptionist should be at the desk.

I expect to receive an explanation for our unsatisfactory treatment and would appreciate an offer of compensation. I look forward to your reply.

Yours faithfully,

M Wright

Mark Wright

- Begin your letter by saying why you are writing.
- Write in an appropriately formal style, avoiding colloquial words and expressions.
- The next paragraph should focus on the first element of the task. Remember to include details and examples.
- The following paragraph should focus on the second element of the task.
- End the main part of the letter by stating clearly what you expect to happen next.
- If the letter began Dear Sir or Madam, it should end Yours faithfully. (However, it should end Yours sincerely if you began by addressing the recipient by name.)
